3/8/18	5	I can't really appreciate enough, the effort that Mithi puts in personally interacting with every student and checking progress one on one. She actually goes to each student in the class, makes notes on their progress, doubts and questions. She actually comes back multiple times again after that to check on further progress of students. She has an excellent rapport with individual students. In the morning she shares something really interesting and useful for the course. The effort she has put in in memorizing each students name is unbelievable and it just shows how dedicated she is to her work and she really wants to guide the students in doing their best. She is an excellent and inspirational person. :)
3/8/18	5	Thanks Udacity for providing us with such an incredible lead :)

3/22/18	5	Gave Lecture today that was well explained and concise. :D
3/22/18	5	Explained details on Project in an excellent manner. Also cleared lot of doubts.
3/22/18	5	The explanation of the equations in kalman filter was very good.
3/22/18	5	Mithi gave a really well-structured and detailed presentation on the cumulative problems being faced by the class in the Kalman Filter course. She also discussed some of the tricky concepts again. As usual she shared really helpful points and links on slack channel. She completely rewrote her code for the project and explained it to the class. I really admire the unbelievably awesome clean code she writes! It's so inspiring and motivates me to write cleaner code myself. Thank you Mithi :)

3/12/18	5	Session was great.

Mithi gave an excellent explanation and presentation of 1D and 2D Kalman filters today. I pity those people who do not ask their doubt when the explanation is being given and then give illogical feedback. If one has a doubt they should just ask when Mithi repeatedly asks if the explanation is clear or not but people don't give any response and then blame Mithi later. Additionally, This is not school and we are not kids. We are expected to put in our effort by researching on the topic. If people want to be spoon fed everything then there's a problem with their thought process and commitment and they should work on that before blaming the session lead. It is just sad how people just choose to overlook all the hard work that Mithi is doing (I was so sad and anxious to know that she skips breakfast and lunch because the internet at her building is bad and she has to work on her presentations in the class to make up for that 'bad internet'). She goes to each person individually and checks on their doubts and progress and helps them with it so many times a day. If someone reaches out to her she comes to the student and works individually with them to help them. She is so hard working, intelligent and dedicated. I feel that if some people have issues with her teaching style then instead of pointing out what she does wrong in feedback they need to suggest what can be improved. If they can't do that then it's not feedback it's just hate. At the end i just want to say that thanks Mithi for your hard work and the effort you put into this. I hope you know how intelligent and inspirational you are. Thank you :)

She is constantly taking updates from everyone, which is really very good, and even if there is so much irregularity between the everybody's pace, she doesn't wastes anybody's time, yet tries to keep everyone at same pace. She's facing health issues, still has the zeal to come to class everyday, just to mentor us for the course which is available online so that there are no doubts left for the day for anybody, which is really very commendable.

P.S. Get well soon! :) And one star is less because you're a star so in total its a full 5 star rating. :D

3/15/18	5	The best part about Mithi's style of mentoring is that she is able to identify which concept/direction does the student needs help on and she gives just the right amount of inputs enabling the student to figure out the issue themselves. It's a really great quality in a mentor. The session that she took today was really informative like always. :)

3/7/18	5	Thoughts presented by Mithi on AI pros/cons and views of others was really wonderful. Got to see beyond our course material and envision how AI can be useful. Efforts put in by Mithi are really commendable and her approach to teaching is superb.
3/7/18	5	Today's paper on GAN was amazing and insightful. Open discussion on NN ethics initiated by mithi was great. would love to have more such discussions on a varied topics related to carnd.
3/7/18	5	The research paper discussion session with Subodh was very good. Looking forward to learn more about DCGANs.
3/7/18	5	Lecture was very good and informative. Thanks :)
3/7/18	5
3/7/18	5	she makes a note of what every student is doing, and helps if anyone is facing any issue, twice daily.That's nice

2/27/18	5	She is very helpful in solving all the issues that we face in class.
		Hello, this is my first feedback. First, the links which you give have been very helpful, and I believe in ML, it's very helpful to first go through architectures of what other people have done, as it would save a lot of time and effort. I would request you to keep on providing these links, as this is a 9 month course compressed to 4, saving time is important, maybe you can tell others to not go through the links if they don't want..
2/27/18	5	Thank you..:)

3/14/18	5
3/14/18	5	In teaching, I guess, what is even more appreciable than explaining the right way at first attempt, is to be capable of making the effort to try to explain the same thing again in a different way. It's really nice how Mithi is able to explain the same 5 concept in more than one way :)

		Today Mithi took a really great session on the importance of writing clean code. It was really insightful and very useful :)
3/19/18	5	Also, the session on C++ really helped in getting to know C++ concepts especially for people like me who are from a non-CS background. Thanks Mithi for the session, the insights and the links. :)
3/19/18	5	Good discussion on debugging
3/19/18	5	links provided by her today, were helpful
